Pursuit of Happiness: Six Keys To Finding True Happiness

The pursuit of happiness is one of the basic elements of human existence—we want to be happy. So why are so many people unhappy? Most likely people are not happy because they are missing one of the six keys to happiness.

The most important key to your personal happiness is determining that you will be happy. For many people, their personal happiness is not a priority in their life. Too often, we put the happiness of others before our own. While this may please our children, spouse, or boss, this is not the path to happiness. This does not mean you should make yourself happy at the expense of others, but you must remember that the reverse should also not be true -- your happiness should not be sacrificed to make others happy.

Once you have determined to make your pursuit of happiness a priority you need to determine just what it is that makes you happy. Spend some time reviewing the happy times in your life. Think about memories that make you smile or activities that make you joyful. Can you find a common element or theme? Then that is one of the keys to finding true happiness for you.

Now that you have identified what makes you happy, you need to engage in that activity. Perhaps you need a creative outlet? Join a writing group, take an art class, or learn an instrument. Do you need physical activity? Then find a way to get back into a sport you love or start a new one. All that is necessary is that you find a way to reconnect.

However true happiness for most of us is not dependent solely on finding that one key. For most of us, we also require special people in our lives to be happy. Perhaps you have lost touch with someone important and can reach out to them? Or perhaps it is simply a time to plan some special time with family. It is important to our own pursuit of happiness to stay connected with those we love.

Another essential key to finding true happiness is helping others in both small and large ways. You might even be able to find a way to combine giving and engaging in an activity that makes you happy. Volunteering is a great example.

Finally, make a list of all the aspects of your life that do make you happy. So many of us get down because we dwell on the negative, but usually there is something about your life that makes you happy. Make a list of these items so you can have a quick mood enhancer when you feel down.

The pursuit of happiness should not be challenging or arduous. Finding true happiness can be as simply as determining, identifying, engaging, connecting, giving and reminding yourself of the six keys to personal happiness.

Lodger Success Story

Medilodge of Port Huron was blessed to have Elizabeth H. here with us before returning home.

When discharging from Medilodge, Elizabeth was going to Florida to stay with her family for a while, but before her trip she wanted to share her experience.

She loves to tell jokes and talk with staff and other residents.

Elizabeth enjoyed the staff and therapy team. She stated that the therapy team helped her out a lot.

"All of the staff was very kind and courteous." Staff was always right there if she needed anything.

Rhonda (C.NA) was wonderful to her. And all her meals she had here she loved, especially the meatloaf, she liked that the best!

Elizabeth would definitely recommend Medilodge of Port Huron to anyone!

Medilodge enjoyed having Elizabeth and wish her the best in sunny Florida!

April is Stress Awareness Month

Learning to cope with stress is important for all of us. Here are a few ways to deal with the stress that you might be experiencing.

Try giving whatever is bothering you a number on a scale from one to ten, where one is a minor bump and ten is the end of the world. You'll probably find that most of your daily problems are no more than a five. In other words, they're not worth getting upset about.

Laugh. Laughter is one of the top stress busters. Adults on average laugh less than 20 times a day; children, on the other hand, laugh hundreds of times a day. Is it surprising that adults are more stressed? Watch your favorite comedies, laugh at your pet, and laugh with your children.

If you feel that you are being overwhelmed with stress and anxiety you should take some deep breaths. Deep breathing has been shown to reduce anxiety. It causes you to focus on the way that you are breathing rather than on what's causing you so much anxiety.

Consuming water throughout your day will keep you feeling full, flush your body of harmful toxins, allow your body to focus and concentrate in trying times and lead to you feeling less stressed overall. Aim to drink at least one liter of water each day to maximize your results and to feel less stressed.

The Benefits of Laughter

Is it a funny coincidence that April is both National Humor Month and Stress Awareness Month? Perhaps, but like the old phrase states: laughter is the best medicine, and it's true. Laughter has many positive health benefits, which can counteract the negative affects of stress.

Laughter increases the functioning of the immune system, helping the body to fight off illness and disease. Studies have demonstrated that laughter causes the increased production of catecholamines and endorphins. These chemicals, when released by the brain into the blood stream during laughter, increase feelings of happiness and well-being.

Laughter also decreases the secretion of cortisol as well as the sedimentation rate, and therefore is beneficial in stimulating the body's immune system.

During laughter, the flow of oxygen in the blood increases. Arteries relax, heart rate and blood temperature are lowered, circulation increases and the skin temperature rises. All of these physical responses have a beneficial effect on both cardiovascular and respiratory health.

Laughter has the potential to help speed healing, and increase overall health and well-being, when its benefits are fully realized as a part of a stress management plan.

While the average human being laughs approximately 8 to 10 times daily, a stress management plan which includes laughter as a part of the daily program would include rigorous "laughing" as an exercise to be performed several times throughout the day.

Full belly laughter, which is an involuntary response of the human brain, can be triggered by watching comedies, listening to comedians, telling jokes or just allowing oneself to participate in fun and silly activities.
